Hi Marcus. Please see a response to your two most recent questions – apologies for the delay in replying.

As explained, it is our policy not to comment on anything relating to a name of someone who was arrested but not charged, which would include documentation such as this.

Having said that, we do not use documents such as this and do not believe it to be authentic. For instance, there is no such officer within City of London Police as "DC Brock."

In reference to your other question, we will not be going into any specific detail about the investigation, but you may find the below useful -

The investigation was completed and reviewed. There was insufficient evidence to provide a realistic prospect of conviction therefore no further action was taken against the suspect.

Thanks

John

John and Merryn,

Hope you're well.

I've obtained the arrest report in the case we discussed earlier this week. Can you verify that the attached document is authentic?

Thank you,
Marcus Baram
